1966 Sugar Cane Crop Was The Best

Cane League Figures Show Big Increase

In a bulletin issued by the Florida Sugar Cane League, with offices at Clewiston, many important facts are shown as they affect sugar production in the Lake Okeechobee Region. In order that these facts may be presented to the cane growers of this area, this newspaper is reproducing a portion of a special bulletin as follows:

"The 1966 crop of sugar cane produced the largest amount of sugar produced to date in Florida. Final production figures show 652,260 tons of raw sugar were made from 6,047,294 net tons of sugar cane. This was some 98,000 tons more sugar than from the previous crop.

"Weather conditions throughout the entire crop were considered to be almost ideal. Adequate rainfall was received during the summer, and early fall and moderately cool, dry weather prevailed during harvest. Although there were two or three frosts that did some damage to young plant cane and new growth of early-cut stubble, harvested cane escaped undamaged throughout harvest. Broadly speaking, the weather played an important, though immeasurable, influence on the crop.

"Those closely related to the Florida sugar industry are well aware of the state's increased sugar production during the past crop, and in general, know that yields, both in sugar cane per acre and in sucrose (sugar per ton), improved over the previous crop.

"To make some comparisons between the 1966 crop and the 1965 crop, both from total production standpoint and from individual farm levels. The discussion is mainly limited to comparisons between the last two crops, 1965 and 1966, because up to the 1965 crop many of the sugar cane farms in Florida were only in their first one or two years of production and, therefore, a detailed analysis of statistical data for that period would probably be less meaningful than the last two crops.

"Two visible factors are responsible for the increase in total tonnage of sugar cane from 1965 to 1966: (1) more acreage harvested for sugar and (2) an increase of 2.07 net tons of sugar cane per acre. The increase in acreage harvested for sugar during the 1966 crop was caused by three things: (1) about 1,900 additional proportionate share acres resulting from a compensating adjustment for over-plantings in Louisiana (other than this there was practically no change in total proportionate share acreage), (2) practically no acreage abandoned, and (3) less acreage cut for seed.

Pesticides Defended By Wildlife Expert

Even though they're responsible for some damage to wildlife, pesticides were defended by one of Florida's wildlife experts.

Clyde R. Madsen, wildlife damage control specialist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service, said it is the improper use of these chemicals—rather than their use in general—that can affect wildlife adversely. He added that the solution to the problem is not to stop using pesticides as some have suggested.

"There is no total substitute for pesticides and to abandon the use of these chemicals would invite disaster. Our own food supply and health would be victimized by insect and rodent pests gone wild," he asserted.

Madsen explained that pest control for insects isn't the same as pest control for animals and birds. "We must minimize damage from certain wildlife and we also must protect and preserve all beasts and birds of the field and forest. A delicate balance must be struck between these two difficult goals. Since our food supply and health depends on pesticides, the only practical solution is to use these chemicals with extra care around wildlife," he said.

Madsen said that much of the hazard to wildlife stems from the fact that certain animals eat plants treated with pesticides or otherwise come in contact with these chemicals.

He cited the problem known as "biological magnification" as the most troublesome. Once pesticide residues enter animal systems, they are stored in the fatty tissue of the animals. Certain animals tend to accumulate these residues as they are passed from one organism to another in the food chain. It is this cumulative effect of pesticide residues in the food chain that can also be hazardous to wildlife, he said.

The whole problem is further complicated by wide differences in sensitivity of animal life to pesticides. Residue levels not considered dangerous to man could be fatal to fish and wildlife. As a general rule, he said crustaceans, mollusks, and fish are the most sensitive, followed in order of decreasing sensitivity by amphibians, reptiles, birds, and mammals.

The wildlife specialist explained that the problem has less effect on man and domestic animals because residues in food and feed are permitted only in amounts considered "safe."

September 12 Election Date ASC Members

The ASC community committee election will be held soon. Ballots will be mailed to eligible voters about September 12, 1967. The voted ballots must be mailed or returned in person by September 22, 1967.

Persons nominated should be currently engaged in the operation of a farm or ranch and well qualified for committee work.

In general, a person is eligible to be a community committeeman if he lives in the community in which he is eligible to vote. If a person who is nominated by petition is found to be ineligible, he will be notified and given 15 days to appeal to the county committee.

Buy Bonds where you work.

It's miserable work, crawling through a rice paddy. And being shot at. This American does the job for freedom's sake. So do thousands of his buddies. Many of these brave men also support freedom with their dollars. A majority of our servicemen overseas are investing in U.S.

Savings Bonds. Would you like to show this man you're with him? One good way is to buy Savings Bonds where you bank or join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. You'll make a good investment. And you'll walk a bit taller.

Now—
U. S. Savings Bonds
Pay More Interest
4.15% when held to maturity

Higher interest on the Bonds you already own, too!

U.S. Savings Bonds are a better way to save than ever

Because now all Series E and Series H Bonds bought after December 1, 1965, will earn the new, higher interest rate of 4.15% when held to maturity. That's only 7 years for Series E—9 months quicker than before. All H Bond interest checks will be larger beginning in June 1966.

And your outstanding Bonds will earn more, too, from now on. So, you don't have to cash in your present Bonds to get the attractive new rate.

Ask about buying Bonds where you work or bank. For America's future. And yours.

"Today, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines."

"Today, above all, is a time for all Americans to rededicate themselves to the spirit that animated the Minutemen of Concord—who serve as a symbol of the Savings Bond program. For today, as at the founding of our nation, it is freedom which is again at stake. Not all of us are called upon to fight in the jungles of Vietnam, but while our men are there, in the front line of a distant land, none of us can remain aloof on the sidelines. We must all do our share—in every way we can—to support our men in Vietnam. One sure way is open to all Americans through the Savings Bond program."

NEW FREEDOM SHARES

What are they? Who may buy them?

Americans have put their savings to work for freedom through U.S. Savings Bonds for many years. New Freedom Shares do the same job . . . plus. Read how.

Freedom Shares are U.S. Savings Notes. They pay a higher return than Savings Bonds, 4.74% when held to maturity. And they mature in just four-and-a-half years.

For regular Bond buyers only

These new Freedom Shares—which are not redeemable for the first year—are offered on a one-for-one basis with E Bonds, but only to people who belong to the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where they bank.

There are four denominations of Freedom Shares, each of which may be paired with a Series E Bond of the same or larger denomination, as a "package." For instance, for $39 total, you can purchase a Savings Bond that matures at $25 and a Freedom Share that matures at $25.

America needs your help

When you buy Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares you do an important job for freedom, backing our men in Vietnam and helping to keep the country economically strong. The need is urgent. What you do counts.

Sign up

Tell your supervisor or the Payroll Department where you work (or any officer where you bank) that you'd like to join a Bond purchase plan. Decide how much you'll save . . . whether you want Freedom Shares as well as Bonds . . . and just sign the authorization card.

You'll be helping your country as you help yourself; the country needs your help.
